

Reserve rebuilds far too slowly

Does liquefied ground recover before the next earthquake?

No - far too slow to matter

- Recovery adds only ~25 milli-g per year
- No resolvable susceptibility change
- Re-liquefaction driven by seismic demand